SPALENDAR presents a new way of visualizing a group’s calendar events by showing people moving between their scheduled meetings and appointments located in their shared work space such as their lab, office, campus.

SPALENDAR reacts to how people approach it, by altering the information density and providing various interaction possibilities.

SPALENDAR encourages casual interactions between group members which go beyond a conventional calendar.

Check your calendar while on-the-go

Create public events and invite the others

Discover group activities from seeing people gather